Respect for Authority brings glory to God

In 586 B.C. the Babylonians destroyed the temple. A few years later, the citizens of Israel were eager to rebuild the temple. However, the governor of their region was not sure they should be doing that, so he sent a letter to King Darius. In the letter, the governor says he found the Jews working on the temple and asks the king if they had permission to do so. The letter also records the Jews' respectful response that they indeed have permission from the former King Cyrus. When the current King checked it out, he found it to be true.

So King Darius not only gave them permission he also paid for it. After the Jews finished building the temple they celebrated with joy because they knew God changed the attitude of the king.

When we see or in a situation that needs to be addressed, may we respond respectfully to the situations around us. Pray for God's wisdom so we can honor God when we plead our case in a respectful way, trusting that He is in control of every situation, and express gratitude for the outcome.

Together through prayer and service,
Deacon Mike
