Temporary Farewell

People post obituary notices in the newspaper every day. When I was younger, I read the newspaper and went directly to the headlines, stories and sport sections. Now I seem to be drawn to the obituaries section. Within the obituaries I occasionally find these descriptions, Gone too soon, Celebration of Life and What a Shock! One I read said, In Transition, which points to life beyond the grave, a temporary farewell.

When we experience a loss of a close relative or friend, we grieve as Mary and Martha did for their brother Lazarus. We miss our love one so much, it breaks our heart and we weep as Jesus wept at the passing of His friend. Yet, it was at this sorrowful moment that Jesus said, "I am the resurrection and the life. The one who believes in me will live, even though they die, and whoever believes in me will never die".

We give our departed loved ones only a temporary farewell. Of course, farewells are painful, but we can rest assured that they are in the Lord's safe hands. In transition suggests that we are only changing from one situation to another. Though life on earth ends for us, we will continue to live forever and better in the next life to come where Jesus is. As Disciples of Christ we must encourage one another with kind and soothing words.

Deacon Mike
