

SAINT PATRICK SAINT MARGARET MARY

Sunday's Readings

First Reading:

His clothing was bright as snow, and the hair on his head as white as wool; his throne was flames of fire, with wheels of burning fire. (Dn 7:9)

Psalms:

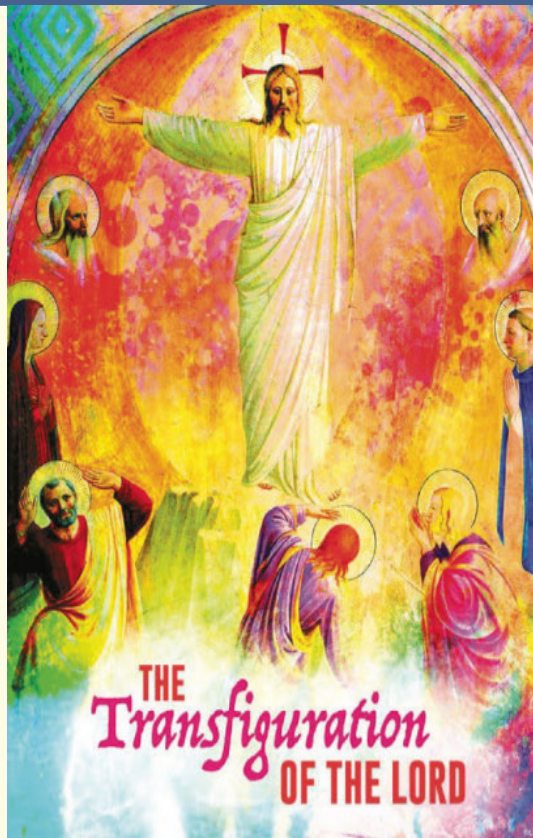

The Lord is king, the Most High over all the earth. (Ps 97)

Second Reading:

When that unique declaration came to him from the majestic glory, "This is my Son, my beloved, with whom I am well pleased." We ourselves heard this voice come from heaven while we were with him on the holy mountain. (2 Pt 1:17-18)

Gospel:

And he was transfigured before them; his face shone like the sun and his clothes became white as light. (Mt 17:2)

A Place of Refuge

Summer movies are often the stories of heroes; whether real-life or fiction, both are super. These stories inspire as they entertain us. The problem is, most of the time, we are content with letting someone else be the hero. We are too busy, too passive, too self-absorbed, or too afraid of what would happen if we got involved; and so the people around us stay unknown to us and do not receive the help they need. The result is a lack of care and compassion for those who need a place of refuge and relief.

God had a different plan when he delivered the people of Israel from Egyptian slavery; the Promised Land was not just abundant in its produce; God desired it to be a place that experienced his blessing and justice in everyday life. Therefore, God created cities of justice and mercy: places of refuge. These cities were placed strategically around the new nation; these were to be cities of refuge. The cities of refuge were available to anyone, even the foreigner.

These designated cities were meant to provide refuge to anyone accused so that everyone could have a fair trial. These very important cities were called to care for the accused, and they provide inspiration for how we are to live, work, and minister today.

How should you and I treat the people around us? To those who have been marginalized; stand with them. To those who have been wounded and suffered loss; mourn with them. To those who have been accused and already “condemned”; listen to them. Yet Jesus stands with us, providing a place of refuge that is needed. May we find the inspiration to step up and be a hero to someone in need.

Deacon Mike
